PROGRAM NOTE

Passing Storm is a programmatic composition depicting the coming and going of a big storm. The piece begins with quiet percussion and minor motives in the winds hinting that something is stirring. The dynamics rise and the musical activity increases as the storm approaches. The musical key changes as the peak of the storm arrives in all of its intensity. The fury of Mother Nature then passes over with the music getting quieter and calmer, ending with a just a peek of the sun (and a major chord).

NOTES TO CONDUCTOR

Articulations are vital to the effectiveness of this piece. The staccato must be light, and the accents heavy.

Stark dynamic contrasts will help tell the story.

The motive in measures 17 and 18 in the low brass and woodwinds must be played with a decrescendo and a full-length quarter note.

The trumpets must play lightly in measures 9-25.

I hope Passing Storm is enjoyable for your band and audience. Have a great performance!
