PROGRAM NOTE

Imagine a sinister character moving quickly from one location to another causing a ruckus everywhere he goes. His motif, the four consecutive sixteenth notes, relentlessly pursues us while accompanied by a flowing melodic line. At times, the rhythmic background contains harmonic dissonance giving all a very unsettling feeling.

NOTES TO THE QUINTET

Sinister Sam should be a fast-paced race to the end for the members of the ensemble. There are a few moments that allow the energy to slow. However, the tempo picks back up and continues forward in a very aggressive manner.

Pay close attention to the passing of melodic ideas as you rehearse the piece. It is important to make sure the ensemble understands the varying rhythms in sections such as measure 12 where the rhythmic background passes between parts.

I wish you and the quintet a spectacular and sinister performance!
